SAVE-THE-DATE: AUGUST 12, 2008

This August the Maryland Public Service Commission will be listening to public opinion and fielding questions about Constellation's proposed new nuclear reactor for Maryland. Unfortunately, they have decided to only have public meetings at the very southern tip of the state. The Chesapeake Safe Energy Coalition believes that every resident should have the opportunity to weigh in and get information on this critical issue. Therefore, the Coalition has committed to hosting an open meeting for those unable to travel to southern Maryland. Come and learn more about the economics and other issues related to this proposed reactor and Maryland's energy and environmental future, and let your voice be heard. Comments collected at the meeting will be delivered to the MD PSC for inclusion in the public record.

What: Public Meeting

When: August 12th at 6:30 pm

Who: Hosted by the Chesapeake Safe Energy Coalition
